Chartered Institute of Personnel and Development

Directors' report for the year ended 30 June 2009

Objects, mission and aims

The objects for which the Institute (CIPD) is established are the promotion of the art and science of the management and development of people for the public benefit.

The purpose of the CIPD is to drive sustained organisation performance through Human Resources.

The CIPD aims in all that it does to demonstrate that:

- good people management and development leads to higher organisational performance and better engagement of people at work
- CIPD chartered members add distinctive value to the people and organisations they work with by their professionalism in applying that body of knowledge appropriately

To achieve those goals the Institute pursues a wide range of activities, funded by member subscriptions and income from its commercial subsidiary. These include research, surveys, publications, information and advisory services, training courses, conferences, contributions to public policy and extensive media coverage.

The CIPD provides public benefit through: the difference that competent people management and development professionals make in adding value to organisations and to individuals at work; its professional standards/qualifications and accreditation of chartered professionals; its influence on the people management and development practice of line managers; its public policy work and activity to promote good people management and development practice; its freely available information (largely web based); and its various face to face and online networks. As well as the members of the Institute, others who benefit from the Institute's work include governments and public policy makers, employers, managers and people who work at all levels in organisations.

Activity summary and future plans

Over the course of the year our membership continued to grow and at the end of June 2009 stood at over 135,500. Of these, over 52,500 had met the rigorous standards of Chartered membership. Throughout 2008/09 we consulted widely and assessed the detailed needs and requirements of the human resources (HR) profession. We comprehensively mapped the HR landscape today in order to produce the 'CIPD HR Profession Map'. It represents a complete reinvention of our professional standards and is designed to maintain rigour and ensure that we are more flexible in our ability to meet the needs of HR specialists as well as HR generalists. Together with the tools, qualifications and routes to CIPD membership, the map will provide our members and their organisations with a flexible and dynamic navigation tool to build capability and find their way through HR careers.

By early 2010 we aim to have new membership criteria in place reflecting the flexibility of the Map, together with new qualifications based on its content.

The number of people registering to study for a CIPD accredited qualification has remained steady at nearly 13,000. These qualifications are delivered by our centres – more than 250 universities, colleges, and other providers who offer our courses throughout the United Kingdom and Ireland.

Chartered Institute of Personnel and Development

Directors' report for the year ended 30 June 2009

We also have our own portfolio of short courses and certificates, delivered through our wholly owned commercial subsidiary, CIPD Enterprises Limited. We offered over 140 different courses and certificates (2008:150) in London, Manchester and Birmingham which attracted nearly 6,400 individual learners during the year (2008: 7,000). The training services we offer on a bespoke basis to organisations reached over 6,000 delegates (2008: 7,500), delivering 600 tailored in-house training courses (2008: 700) for a variety of employers covering mainland Europe, the USA, Ghana, Cyprus, India and the UAE, as well as employers in the UK and Ireland.

In September 2008 the CIPD Annual Conference and Exhibition was held in Harrogate and attracted nearly 5,000 people over three days. The exhibition included opportunities for free learning with presentations on a range of key topics in the exhibitor exchange showcase and a series of subject specific 'theatres' covering subjects such as recruitment and talent management and employee benefits and reward. In 2009 the event moves to Manchester with a new date in November. The new venue, Manchester Central, offers a more flexible space to work with and will have one hall for the exhibition, making it easier for visitors and delegates to access the exhibition and navigate their way around the show.

HRD, our annual learning and organisational development event held in April 2009 in London, attracted more than 4,500 people and in May almost 750 delegates attended the CIPD Conference and Expo 2009 held in Dublin, Ireland.

Our magazine People Management provides us with a direct means of sharing thinking and promoting debate on the current issues dominating HR. It is circulated free to all members, is a highly rated member benefit and independent audience research confirms that it is also highly valued and widely read by many of our members' colleagues and others with an interest in the field.

Our research enables us to lead thinking, keep our members abreast of latest trends and developments, and gives us the material to provide practical advice and guidance to our members and the wider management community, and helps our objective to lead thinking, anticipate future trends and shape the future of the profession. We have recently launched our Next Generation HR research project, through which we are seeking to identify the emergent trends and groundbreaking practice in HR today - to help build a picture of what great HR will look like in ten years time. We will publish the initial findings at our Annual Conference and Exhibition in November.

We delivered our four popular annual tracking surveys covering absence management, reward, learning and development, and recruitment and retention. These surveys provide valuable benchmarking and trend data on current HR practice which we then share with members, others with an interest in people management and policy makers wherever appropriate and relevant.

Our research, surveys, and the knowledge and experience of our expert team of advisers, provides the basis for our extensive media profile which we use to promote good practice in the management and development of people - to our members, the wider business community and the general public. In the last year we received over 300 mentions in the media each month (2008: 240), including an average of 33 appearances a month in the national press (2008: 23). We also successfully targeted a higher profile on the broadcast media, appearing regularly throughout the year on high profile national news programmes and on regional radio and TV stations.

The recession-driven turbulence in the labour market has ensured that our Chief Economist has been in heavy demand for commentary and that our regular analysis of current and future prospects and trends in the labour market – particularly our quarterly Labour Market Outlook – met with a receptive audience. We launched the Employee Outlook, a quarterly survey of employee attitudes and responded to major political occasions such as the Queen's Speech and the Budget. Debates around public policy issues such as the Agency Workers Directive, the Default Retirement Age and the Equality Bill have also provided a media platform for our research and opinions.

More information about the Institute's goals and the year's activities and achievements are in the annual review, which together with the summary financial statements and annual report have been published on our website www.cipd.co.uk/annualreport.

Directors' report for the year ended 30 June 2009

Financial review

Overview

The financial statements consolidate the accounts of the Institute and its branches, including the Republic of Ireland, and the accounts of the Institute's trading subsidiary CIPD Enterprises Limited. The accounts are presented in accordance with the Statement of Recommended Practice (SORP 2005) 'Accounting and Reporting by Charities'.

Over a third of the total income arose from members' subscriptions. The turnover from CIPD's commercial activities, which are operated through the wholly owned subsidiary CIPD Enterprises Limited, fell back from last year's figure of over £20m, reflecting the difficult trading conditions associated with events and recruitment advertising in particular.

Our charitable expenditure helps provide high quality services to members and to the wider public. Our website plays a major part in making our research, practical advice and guidance accessible to all, in addition to traditional media such as our bi-weekly journal People Management.

Net incoming resources for the year, before designated fund expenditure, was almost £3m. Over £5.5m was spent from designated funds, the majority being targeted at IT projects and development of the HR Professional Map that will underpin the Institute's qualifications and professional development from 2010.

The FRS 17 valuation of the defined benefit pension scheme at 30 June 2009, as determined by the Institute's appointed actuary, showed a decrease in the deficit by £1.1m to £6m. This reflects a lower inflation assumption and the slight increase in the discount rate used to discount the liabilities. The discount rate is based on high quality corporate bond rates with terms to maturity approximating to the terms of the pension liability.

The CIPD continues to pay special contributions of £60,000 each September under the funding plan following the October 2005 scheme valuation, and expects to make a further £1m payment in September 2009 based on the October 2008 scheme valuation.

Future benefit accruals are on a career average revalued earnings basis with limited price indexation of pensions in payment restricted to 2.5%.

Investments

The CIPD aims to improve the real buying power of its investments and has adopted a target return relative to RPI. The Institute seeks to maximise the investment return on assets while not investing in any assets that could put CIPD at significant risk.

Net losses on investment assets over the year were £4.1m - the main losses arising from fund holdings in equities, commodities and property. Negative returns in these areas were partly mitigated by holding a diverse range of asset classes and using a number of different specialist managers. The asset allocation and fund manager performance are tracked by the Institute's investment advisor and rebalancing decisions are considered quarterly. The market value of the investment assets held at the year end was £16.1m compared to £20.1m at 30 June 2008.

Reserves and funds

The Institute follows a policy of aiming to keep sufficient reserves in the general fund to meet at least one year's operating costs, being the total costs of the CIPD and the staff and related costs of its commercial subsidiary. The general fund as at 30 June 2009 was £19.6m after deducting the pension liability. This is £4m below the figure required by the policy, largely due to the unrealised losses on our investment assets. We have gone through a recent cost review exercise, including staff redundancies, which together with other initiatives will contribute towards the elimination of this deficit in due course. The Institute also keeps reserves as designated funds which are set aside for specific purposes in the near future. The designated funds are explained in more detail in note 1(k) to the financial statements on page 15 and totalled £3.8m at the end of the year.

We also have a policy of keeping £1m in cash and readily available funds at any given time.

Chartered Institute of Personnel and Development

Directors' report for the year ended 30 June 2009

Employees

Our ability to build for the future while continuing to deliver an excellent service today relies entirely on the commitment, talent and effort of our people – staff and volunteers. This has been particularly true in a year where cost pressures have made it necessary for us to make 41 redundancies on top of sustained savings on non-staff costs.

At the end of the year we employed 297 staff (2008: 340 staff) or 281 full time equivalents (2008: 321). Seventeen percent of our staff work on a part-time basis (2008: 17%). Unplanned leavers have reduced from 16% to 13%. The average length of service is 5.9 years (2008: 5.7), 72% of our staff are female (2008: 73%), 1.4% report that they have a disability (2008: 1.5%) and 12.5% report that they are from an ethnic minority (2008: 12.5%).

CIPD is committed to the development of all staff. We spent 1.9% (2008: 2.7%) of staff payroll on training and staff spent 640 days (2008: 941 days) on formal off-the-job training. At the end of the year we launched a new mentoring programme, which will contribute to developing our talented staff and stretch their potential even further.

We regularly review both the current and future training and development needs of staff, agree those needs and develop on-going and targeted plans to meet them. Through performance and development reviews managers identify individual training and development needs.

All staff have performance reviews with their manager. These provide an opportunity to discuss performance frankly and openly, including progress on personal development and against agreed objectives. Assessments are also made against our six core behavioural competencies.

CIPD is committed to the health and well-being of its staff. We offer a range of support services to promote good health, assist managers in dealing with health related issues and ensure the working environment is supportive of staff needs. We also have a culture that is very supportive of flexitime and flexible working which is seen by staff as beneficial to their well-being and work life balance.

Volunteers

We are fortunate to have many people who give their time on a voluntary basis. This includes 15 members of the Board who are the CIPD's directors and trustees, 7 vice-presidents and 48 branch representatives, who, with the Board, form the CIPD's Council. A further 30 people are involved in the Membership and Education Committee and its subcommittees. Over 80 people are members of upgrading panels and many more work at branch or national level to advance our Professional Standards. Members of the CIPD's Nominations and Professional Conduct Committee and the Professional Policy Committee also serve in a voluntary capacity.

In addition, there are over 900 people who serve on local branch committees throughout the UK and the Republic of Ireland. Branches run events to support members in their professional development and to upgrade their membership status, make links with centres offering CIPD courses, and enable member networking. Members are also involved in facilitating our online communities and special interest forums.

We provide induction events for all these people, and also ongoing training and development. On average our volunteers spend 10 days a year on their various voluntary CIPD activities, though many give much more than this.

Directors' recruitment

Vacancies on the Board are publicised through the Institute's magazine People Management, our website, our regular email update, and through the branch structure. Directors are elected by Council, or if Honorary Officers at the AGM. The CIPD's chief executive also serves on the Board. There are role profiles and competency requirements for Board and Committee appointments and processes for reviewing prospective appointments. There is a formal process of induction for new directors and committee members.

Statement of directors' responsibilities for the financial statements

The directors (who also acted as trustees for the charitable activities) are responsible for preparing the Directors' report and the financial statements in accordance with applicable law and United Kingdom Accounting Standards (United Kingdom Generally Accepted Accounting Practice).

The law applicable to charities in England & Wales requires the directors to prepare financial statements for each financial year which give a true and fair view of the state of affairs of the Institute and the group and of the incoming resources and application of resources of the group for that period. In preparing these financial statements the directors are required to:

- select suitable accounting policies and apply them consistently,
- make judgements and estimates that are reasonable and prudent,
- state whether applicable accounting standards have been followed, subject to any material departures disclosed and explained in the financial statements, and
- prepare the financial statements on the going concern basis unless it is inappropriate to assume that the entity will continue in business.

The directors are responsible for keeping sufficient accounting records that disclose with reasonable accuracy at any time the financial position of the Institute and the group and enable them to ensure that the financial statements comply with the Charities Act 1993, the Charity (Accounts and Reports) Regulations, the Statement of Recommended Practice "Accounting and Reporting by Charities" (SORP 2005) and the provisions of the Institute's Charter. They are also responsible for safeguarding the assets of the Institute and the group and hence for taking reasonable steps for the prevention and detection of fraud and other irregularities.

In so far as each director is aware:

- there is no relevant information of which the Institute's auditors are unaware; and
- the directors have taken all steps that they ought to have taken to make themselves aware of the relevant audit information and to establish that the auditors are aware of that information.

A review of the year together with the Report and financial statements are available on the Institute's web site (www.cipd.co.uk). The directors are responsible for the maintenance and integrity of the website and accordingly the auditors accept no responsibility for the information published.

Information published on the website is accessible in many countries and legislation in the UK concerning the preparation and dissemination of Financial Statements may differ from legislation in other jurisdictions. The Institute meets the relevant company legislative requirements in the Republic of Ireland.

Going concern

The financial statements have been prepared on a going concern basis since, having made relevant enquiries, the Executive Board has a reasonable expectation that the Institute has adequate resources to continue in operational existence for the foreseeable future.

Corporate governance, internal control and risk management

The Institute's corporate governance, internal control and risk management arrangements are described below. The requirements of the Statement of Recommended Practice "Accounting and Reporting by Charities" (SORP 2005) to report on risk management are covered by this report. The Institute's reporting arrangements are also informed by the spirit of the Combined Code on Corporate Governance and the Companies Acts in so far as these are consistent with the Institute's status as a professional body incorporated by Royal Charter and a registered charity.

Executive Board

The Board meets regularly throughout the year and is responsible for directing overall group strategy, major capital projects, budgets, financial control and risk management. It reviews operational performance regularly to satisfy itself that the activities of the Institute are in accordance with the agreed strategic direction and ensures that the executive management has the capacity and resources to meet CIPD's objectives.

The members of the Board are the directors of the Institute and charity trustees. The composition of the Board is set out in the directors' report.

The Professional Policy Committee oversees the development and dissemination of CIPD's research and professional knowledge activity ensuring that it is at the leading edge of good practice. The Membership and Education Committee has responsibility for defining and developing the Institute's professional standards for membership, for setting the regulations for membership entry and upgrading and for establishing the policy regarding continuing professional development.

Audit Committee

The committee has up to six members, including the Honorary Treasurer who chairs the committee. They are appointed by, and must be, non-executive members of the Board with recent and relevant experience. The Committee meets at least twice a year, reviews the financial statements, oversees risk management and internal control, oversees the relationship with and considers reports from the external auditors, receives a report on the work of the internal auditors, and reviews the Institute's pension fund liabilities.

Remuneration Committee

This committee determines the chief executive's remuneration, sets their objectives and reviews their performance. The committee also support the chief executive in succession planning for senior management under review. Its members are the President, the Chair of the Board and the Honorary Treasurer. It takes professional advice where necessary to assist it in its work, taking into account the technical expertise of the committee members.

The remuneration of the Chief Executive is set out in note 4 to the financial statements.

Nominations and Professional Conduct Committee

This is chaired by the Immediate Past President. The other members are the immediate past Honorary Officers, CIPD's chief executive and two members appointed by the Board. It is responsible for ensuring a good supply of, and the vetting of, nominations to hold office and to serve on the Board and committees. It also considers nominations for awards. It oversees the code of professional conduct on behalf of the Board and Council.

Internal controls and risk management

The directors acknowledge their responsibility for the Institute's system of internal control and those arrangements required on an on-going basis. No system of internal control can provide absolute assurance against material mis-statement or loss. The Institute's systems are designed to provide the directors with reasonable assurance that any problems are identified on a timely basis and are dealt with appropriately. They are also designed to support business improvement.

The transparent organisational culture adopted by the Institute is an important element of ensuring effective risk management and internal control.

Chartered Institute of Personnel and Development

Chartered Institute of Personnel and Development

Independent Auditors' report to the members of the Chartered Institute of Personnel and Development

We have audited the group and parent charity financial statements ("the financial statements") of the Chartered Institute of Personnel and Development for the year ended 30 June 2009, which comprises the consolidated statement of financial activities, the group and parent charity balance sheets, the consolidated cash flow statement and notes 1 to 15. These financial statements have been prepared under the accounting policies set out therein.

This report is made solely to the Institute's members, as a body, in accordance with Section 43 of the Charities Act 1993 and regulations made under Section 44 of that Act. Our audit work has been undertaken so that we might state to the Institute's members those matters we are required to state to them in an auditors' report and for no other purpose. To the fullest extent permitted by law, we do not accept or assume responsibility to anyone other than the Institute and the Institute's members as a body, for our audit work, for this report, or for the opinions we have formed.

Respective responsibilities of directors and auditors

The Institute's directors', who also acted as trustees for the charitable activities, responsibilities for the preparation of financial statements in accordance with applicable law and United Kingdom Accounting Standards (United Kingdom Generally Accepted Accounting Practice) are set out in the Statement of Directors' Responsibilities.

We have been appointed as auditors under Section 43 of the Charities Act 1993 and report in accordance with regulations made under that Act. Our responsibility is to audit the financial statements in accordance with relevant legal and regulatory requirements and International Standards on Auditing (UK and Ireland).

We report to you our opinion as to whether the financial statements give a true and fair view and are properly prepared in accordance with the Charities Act 1993. We also report to you if, in our opinion, the information given in the Directors' report is not consistent with the financial statements, if the Institute has not kept sufficient accounting records, if the Institute's financial statements are not in agreement with these records, or if we have not received all the information and explanations we require for our audit.

We read other information contained in the Annual Report and consider whether it is consistent with the audited financial statements. The other information comprises only the Directors' report and the Corporate Governance, Internal Control and Risk Management report. We consider the implications for our report if we become aware of any apparent misstatements or material inconsistencies with the financial statements. Our responsibilities do not extend to any other information.

Basis of audit opinion

We conducted our audit in accordance with International Standards on Auditing (UK and Ireland) issued by the Auditing Practices Board. An audit includes examination, on a test basis, of evidence relevant to the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. It also includes an assessment of the significant estimates and judgements made by the directors in the preparation of the financial statements, and of whether the accounting policies are appropriate to the group's and parent charity's circumstances, consistently applied and adequately disclosed.

We planned and performed our audit so as to obtain all the information and explanations which we considered necessary in order to provide us with sufficient evidence to give reasonable assurance that the financial statements are free from material misstatement, whether caused by fraud or other irregularity or error. In forming our opinion we also evaluated the overall adequacy of the presentation of information in the financial statements.

Opinion

In our opinion the financial statements:

- give a true and fair view, in accordance with United Kingdom Generally Accepted Accounting Practice, of the state of affairs of the group's and the parent charity's affairs as at 30 June 2009 and of the group's incoming resources and application of resources for the year then ended; and
- have been prepared in accordance with the Charities Act 1993.

Notes to the financial statements for the year ended 30 June 2009

1 Principal accounting policies

(a) Basis of accounting

The financial statements are prepared in accordance with applicable accounting standards under the historical cost convention as modified by the revaluation of investments and in accordance with the Statement of Recommended Practice (SORP 2005) "Accounting and Reporting by Charities" and the Charities Act 1993.

(b) Consolidation

The group financial statements include the results of the Institute, its subsidiary and the Institute's branches, which are consolidated using the equity method in accordance with Financial Reporting Standard 2 "Accounting for subsidiary undertakings". A subsidiary is an entity controlled directly or indirectly by the group. Control is the power to govern the financial and operating policies of the entity so as to obtain benefits from its activities. Intra-group balances and transactions are eliminated on consolidation.

The results, assets and liabilities of the Institute's branches are consolidated based upon annual financial statements prepared to dates ending within three months preceding 30 June 2009. These statements are then adjusted to match the Institute's own financial accounting date.

(c) Tangible fixed assets and depreciation

Depreciation is provided on a straight line basis on the cost of tangible fixed assets to write them down to their estimated residual values over their expected useful lives. No depreciation is provided on freehold land. The principal annual rates used for other assets are:

Office equipment	25% - 33%
Freehold buildings (from date of first use)	4%

Assets with a cost below £2,500 are not capitalised. Where assets are considered to be impaired they are written down to their recoverable value.

(d) Income

Income from subscriptions is included on the accruals basis referring to the period to which the income relates. Income from events is recognised when the event takes place. Income received in advance for services not yet performed is deferred. All other income, including centre licensing fees and examination fees, comprises the invoiced amounts for services provided and goods sold (net of VAT).

(e) Stocks

Stocks mainly comprise books and publications and are valued at the lower of cost, using an average cost basis, and net realisable value.

(f) Pension schemes

The Institute operates two separate pension schemes.

The CIPD Staff Retirement Scheme is a defined benefit scheme. It is accounted for in accordance with FRS17. The notional net interest charge on the FRS17 deficit, the expected return on assets and the current service cost have been allocated across the resources expended categories based on pensionable payroll. Scheme assets are measured at fair values. Scheme liabilities are measured on an actuarial basis using the projected unit method and are discounted at appropriate high quality corporate bond rates that have terms to maturity approximating to the terms of the related liability. Appropriate adjustments are made for actuarial gains or losses which are recognised in other recognised gains and losses in the statement of financial activities.

The CIPD Money Purchase Pension Plan is a UK based defined contribution scheme. The Institute also makes contributions to defined contribution schemes for its staff in Ireland. The charges to the statement of financial activities for the defined contribution schemes are the amounts payable in respect of the accounting year.

Chartered Institute of Personnel and Development

(g) Operating leases

Payments in respect of operating leases are charged to the consolidated statement of financial activities over the life of the lease on a straight-line basis.

(h) Expenditure classification and support cost allocation

Details on the expenditure classification and support cost allocation bases are in note 2(a).

(i) Taxation

The Institute is not liable for corporation tax as it is a registered charity. All of the profit of the Institute's trading subsidiary is assigned to the Institute under a deed of covenant.

(j) Investments

Investments are stated in the balance sheet at market value. Realised and unrealised gains and losses in the year based on market value are recognised in the consolidated statement of financial activities. The investment properties are shown at Directors' estimate of their open market valuation.

Liquid resources are funds held at bank which require more than 24 hours notice to access.

(k) Fund accounting

The Institute has various types of funds for which it is responsible and which require separate disclosure. These are as follows:

General fund

This contains funds that are spent at the discretion of the directors in furtherance of the objects of the charity, and include funds held under the policy of having sufficient reserves to meet at least one year's operating costs.

Designated funds

The Institute may at its discretion set aside funds for specific purposes that would otherwise form part of the general reserves of the organisation. The Institute sets aside funds, supported by cash and investments, in respect of a variety of activities that are explained in more detail below. As such, they are not available for other purposes.

- The building fund provides for maintenance of CIPD properties, for dilapidations and for potential property projects.
- The information technology fund is for the development of systems to improve members' services and management information.
- The new learning fund is for the cost of developing learning materials to meet the Institute's professional standards and to make use of new learning technology.
- The research and development fund is for the cost of research activities, on which expenditure varies from year to year, according to the Institute's strategic objectives.
- The strategic initiatives fund is to provide for special initiatives identified by the Board – which include growing membership, meeting the needs of leading members of the HR profession, growing CIPD's offering internationally, and engaging more directly with employers.

The outstanding balance on the building fund is expected to be used over the next ten to twenty years, though this is dependant on the nature and timing of any potential property projects. The outstanding balances on each of the other funds are expected to be used over the next two to three years.

The Institute operated two separate occupational pension schemes – the CIPD Staff Retirement Scheme and the CIPD Money Purchase Pension Plan.

(a) CIPD Staff Retirement Scheme

The CIPD Staff Retirement Scheme is a defined benefit scheme. A majority of the eligible employees are members of the scheme.

The assets of the scheme are held separately from those of the Institute to meet long-term pension liabilities to past and present employees. The trustees of the scheme are required to act in the best interest of the scheme's beneficiaries and are appointed in accordance with scheme's trust deed. Currently one third of the trustees are member nominated. AON Consulting Limited administered the scheme on behalf of the trustees until 30 September 2008 when Barnett Waddingham took over the administration and actuarial roles.

The scheme's assets are mainly invested in two diversified growth funds managed by BlackRock and Barings. During the year the scheme withdrew the funds invested with Credit Suisse and is in the process of appointing a replacement third manager.

The last full actuarial valuation was carried out as at 1 October 2005. This was finalised in September 2006 with an actuarial deficit of approximately £3.4m. To address the past service deficit the CIPD agreed a funding plan with the scheme trustees. CIPD contributed a lump sum of £1.5m in September 2006 and has agreed to pay additional contributions of £60,000 in each September until 2024 plus a final payment of £600,000 in September 2025. In addition, the CIPD granted the scheme a charge over £2m of investment assets to act as contingent assets for the scheme. The next triennial actuarial valuation (as at 1 October 2008) is being undertaken, the results of which will be available by 1 January 2010 at the latest. It is expected that, as a consequence of this valuation, a lump sum of £1m will be paid to the scheme in September 2009.

Benefits accrued from 1 October 2006 have been on a career average revalued earnings basis and will have limited price indexation of pensions in payment restricted to 2.5%. Prior to 1 October 2006 benefits were accrued on a final salary basis and active members paid contributions to the Scheme. On this date the Institute implemented a salary sacrifice scheme and since then has paid all of the contributions at a rate of 19.1% of pensionable salaries. Of this, 6% represents the contributions that active members would have paid were the salary sacrifice scheme not in place.
